CANDIDATES IN THE AUGUST PRIMARIES

HAVE THROWN THEIR HATS INTO RING AND RACE IS ON

It Is a Political Guess Who Will Be Nosed Out In the Running—Tardy Candidates Have Until Midnight, Central Standard Time, To File For State and County Offices—Line Up Is Interesting and There Is No Dearth of Aspirants—Take Your Choice.

Other candidates who filed were John W. Pattison, Cincinnati, candidate for state treasurer and Hamilton G. Dewesse, Columbus. Both seek Democratic preferment. A. D. Davis, Columbus, filed for attorney general, Democratic.

Frank S. Monnett, of Columbus, former attorney general of Ohio, is to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office. His declaration is to be filed Friday. Monnett was elected once to his post as a Republican and served one term, during which he tried to smash all the "trusts." The Republicans refused renomination to him and he became a Democrat later and was named by the party for the position.

Aspirants to nomination for state offices, Democrats and Republicans, hastened to qualify by filing petitions with the secretary of state. The close of the day saw papers recorded for nearly all those who have been mentioned prominently, and numerous others.

The office is to be kept open until midnight Friday night, Central Standard time, for the receipt of declarations. Postmarks before midnight also are to be recognized. It was said it may be Monday before the lists are completed.

The Democratic quest for a candidate for chief justice of the Ohio supreme court is to be successful when E. L. Bodey, of Urbana, put his name into the pot. Thomas E. Dye, chairman of the executive committee, who is a fellow townsman of Bodey, said he had nothing to do with bringing Bodey out. Whether Bodey is to have opposition or not still is to be settled.

The declaration of Charles W. F. Dick, Akron, former United States senator, in opposition to Senator Frank B. Willis, is expected to reach Columbus Friday. Dick sent word that his papers are on the way. Four years ago he was the runner-up when Senator Simeon D. Fess, Yellow Springs won the nomination.

While no information as to Dick is positive, he is expected to assail Senator Willis for his vote to put America into the world court.

Democrats came to life with a batch of petitions. James C. B. Beatty, East Liverpool, the liberal opponent of Governor A. V. Donahey, sent a second declaration accompanied by $25 to replace one which has been on file for nearly two years. In a letter he intimated that the first one might not be legal. Opponents, however, made no charge that it had become stale or musty.

A. P. Sandles, of Ottawa, filed his papers for the Democratic nomination and daughters, his personal physician and daughters, his personal physician and his neighbors. At the same time he issued a manifesto in 12 "points" in which he emphasized what he will do if nominated and elected to be governor. He said if nominated he will urge the election of a Democratic legislature. He also promised that if elected he would uphold all the laws. He added: "This, without reservation, on my part, includes the eighteenth amendment."

However, Mr. Sandles says prohibition is a national issue which should not enter the state contest.

The major Democratic candidates for United States senator also filed their declarations, Atlee Pomerene, Canton, former senator.

Judge Florence Allen has filed her declaration and says:

"The facts which weighed heaviest with me in deciding to enter as a candidate for the nomination to the United States senate is that, while women are needed in all legislative bodies—city councils, state legislature and the house of representatives—their presence is peculiarly required in the United States senate.

"I am dry, and I am unwilling to concede that the federal government is unable to enforce the law. In my opinion, prohibition as a national measure has never been fully tried."

Miss Allen declared she was "in the fight to stay."

Cards Amundsen Mailed 13 Years Ago, Delivered

Chicago.—As Capt. Roald Amundsen swept over the northern roof of the earth recently a sack of mail, from Finland reached Chicago, bearing postcards mailed on his polar ship, the Fram, thirteen years ago.

Stanley G. Swanberg, Wilmette, received one of the cards. It was sent to him by a friend, who has been dead eight years, and started on its journey in Colon harbor in the Canal zone, December 4, 1913. Swanberg explained that the card was one of a number Amundsen gave visitors to his ship. It bore the printed note: "Will be carried across the polar sea and afterward conveyed by post to the addressee."

The cards bore two postal stamps marked in polar latitude, but nothing further to indicate their history.

Movies Help

Paris.—Movies are keeping French women away from the saloons. The pictures and improved housing, thinks Professor Labbe of the Academy of Medicine, are doing more than anything else to decrease alcoholism in the country.

Turner Files For Attorney General

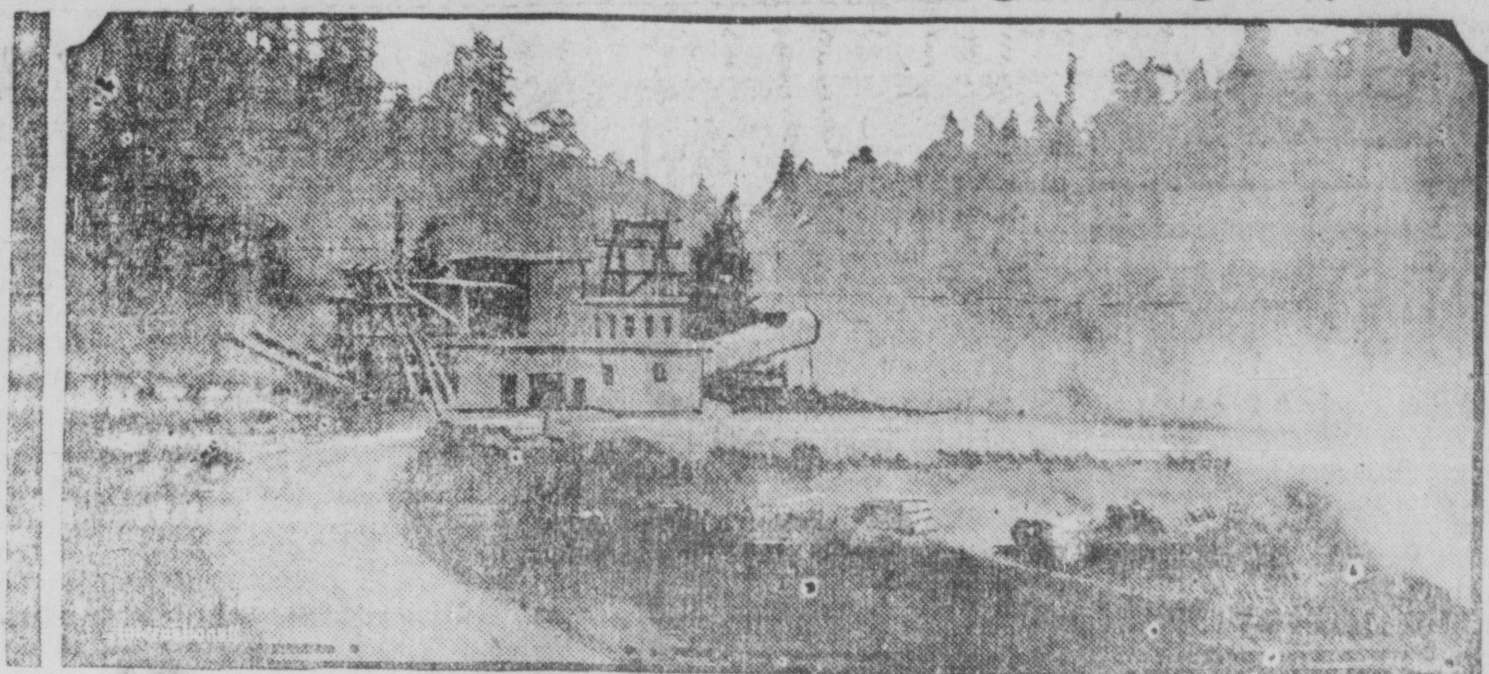

Edward C. Turner, Attorney General for one term (1915-16), has filed his petition for the Republican nomination for Attorney General, signed by Judge J. E. Sater, for many years Federal Judge, George W. Rightmire, President Ohio State University, General Chauncey B. Baker, Vice President Market Exchange Bank, Judge David F. Pugh, Nestor of the Franklin County Bar, Smith W. Bennett, former President Ohio State Bar Association, Donald M. Hamilton, President Franklin County Bar Association, Percy Tetlow, an official of the United Mine Workers, George M. Wilber, farmer, and Mrs. R. C. Wolcott, President of Altrurian Club.

IN HOSPITAL.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Stout and Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner today visited Mrs. Clarence Ankrom, a patient at Grant hospital, Columbus. Mrs. Ankrom is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stout and a sister of Mrs. Wagner. The patient is getting along nicely.

Dredging Gold From a Washington Highway

Motorists who use the Yellowstone Trail highway, fourteen miles north of Cle Elum, in the state of Washington, are forced to make a detour when they find a huge gold dredger at work in the middle of the road. The highway runs over what was the bed of the old Swauk creek. The gold-bearing gravel was worked by white and Chinese miners many years ago, who stopped work there when the big strikes were made in the Klondike. Recently a group of men in eastern Washington incorporated and put the dredger to work, as they hold the mining rights to the land the highway runs over. The dredge is taking out over a thousand dollars a day.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Columbus.—Horace S. Kerr, Columbus attorney, is the new district governor of Ohio Lons' clubs. Kerr was elected without a dissenting vote.

Columbus.—Albert Casa, Columbus, was held in jail today pending an investigation of the killing of Mike Donohue, 45, brother of Bill Donohue, Hocking Valley railroad detective.

Columbus.—Governor Vic Donahey has announced the appointment of Arthur Markey former Dayton municipal judge to the domestic relations division of the Dayton common pleas court. Markey if he accepts the appointment will succeed Judge Roland W. Baggott, resigned.

Urbana.—Rose Downing, 41, mother of nine children, was in a dying condition today from burns when her clothing caught fire from a cook stove.

Columbus.—The state board of control this afternoon refused to grant State Welfare Director John E. Harper's request for an appropriation of $236,822 to purchase a 2110 acre tract near New London as the site for the new state institution for the feeble-minded.

Columbus.—Francis Gormley, 35, a window washer, was killed instantly today when he fell from the thirteenth floor of the Guaranty Title & Trust company building here. Gormley crashed on the roof of the city National bank building, seven stories below.

Wooster.—Howard Kimes, 19, was decapitated today when he fell beneath an Erie freight train at Creston, near here. Kimes was attempting to board the train when he fell. Howard Bedan, 49, of near Orville, met death in a similar manner last night.

Mill That Cast 1812 Cannon Is Abandoned

Bridgewater, Mass.—The rolling mill of the Stanley Iron works of this town, said to be the only one of its kind in the world, will be abandoned and that section of the plant will be moved to New Britain, Conn.

The mill was founded in 1784. Cannon for the War of 1812 and other wars were cast at this historic plant, and years ago one of its chief sources of revenues was from casting blubber pots for whaling vessels.

The machine shop at the foundry here will be retained.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED FOR COMING YEAR

Sunday School Convention Was Full of Interest—Awards in Flag Contest.

The Business and Professional Women's club, of this city, was hosted Thursday evening to the girls of high school, and a most delightful time was enjoyed by all. Dinner was served by the ladies of St. Philip parish in the beautiful parish house at 7 o'clock to the twenty-seven girl graduates and thirty-three members of the club.

Mrs. S. B. Winter of Portsmouth sang "For You Alone" and "Sunbeams."

Miss Nellie Anderson read a splendid paper and told of the benefit of the Business & Professional Women's club. Miss Charlotte McEwing was the next speaker and her paper was very humorous and entertaining.

Mrs. Winter sang "May Morning" and "Smiles and Frowns."

Mrs. Graham, president of the local club then presented Miss Florence Peterson, of Portsmouth, past vice president of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, who was a most pleasing speaker and gave the graduates much wholesome advice and in a very entertaining way.

The boys of the club were dinner guests of the Rotary club Thursday noon at The Boggs.

They thoroughly enjoyed the fellowship with the men and entered heartily into the singing of the club songs.

The speaker of the day was Dr. John G. Benson, superintendent of the White Cross hospital Columbus, who always delivers a good message with a powerful punch.

Dr. Benson is a rapid fire talker, with a thought worth while in every sentence. His diction is of high order and his talk was interspersed with humor of a splendid sort and there was not a dull moment from beginning to end.

That the young boys enjoyed the dinner hour with the men goes without saying, but their pleasure as guests could not measure up to the joy in the hearts of the old boys who were so happy to be hosts to such a fine lot of lads.

An anonymous book in Latin dealing with English law, called "Fleta," is supposed to have been written by a prisoner in the Fleet prison, London, whence it gets its name. It was completed about the year 1290.

RICHEST PRIVATE

Private (first class) Robert William Bradley, twenty-two years old, and probably the richest private in the United States army as the result of the discovery of oil on a farm near Smackover, left him by his parents. For almost three years lawyers have been searching for the boy, who failed to get excited in the least when he was at last discovered and informed of his good fortune. He says that when he finishes his enlistment, which has a year and ten months to run, he will claim the money. Bradley has a perfect army record.

Pointer for Salesmen

Recent tests are said to prove that salesmen are able to obtain the best results while wearing dark, plain-colored neckties, and that the worst results came while wearing polka-dot ties. It would appear from this that such dotted ties have a tendency to distract the buyer's attention from the importance of the dotted line.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES ENTERTAINED

Girls are Guests of Women's Club and Boys Break Bread With the Rotarians.

The fifth-ninth annual convention of the Pickaway County Sunday School association closed its session Thursday evening.

The name of the organization has been changed to "The Pickaway Council of Religious Education."

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, E. S. Neuding; vice president, Rev. A. H. Beardsley; secretary, George P. Hunsicker; treasurer, George F. Grand Girard; superintendent children's division, Mrs. E. A. Allen; young people's division W. A. Tedrick; adults division, Professor J. M. Gordon; educational department, Professor M. C. Warren; administration department, Judge E. A. Brown.

The executive committee is: Rev. A. H. Beardsley, Rev. E. S. Tonesmeic, Rev. Sidney W. Hiles, Rev. E. A. Tovey, Rev. George Weir, C. C. McCafferty, George P. Hunsicker, Herman Reid, M. C. Warren, Robert Pherson, A. A. White, E. S. Neuding, W. M. Reid, W. A. Tedrick and E. A. Brown.

The nominating committee was A. M. Daugherty, Robert Pherson, Mrs. D. C. Rader, Mrs. E. A. Allen, Homer S. Reber and E. A. Brown.

The flag committee; E. S. Neuding, W. A. Tedrick and George F. Grand Girard submitted the following report; City of Circleville, flag No. 1, First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday school, 48 present; flag No. 2, Evangelical church, 27 present; flag No. 3, Second Baptist church.

Outside of city, flag No. 1, Scioto chapel U. B. church Scioto township, 72 present; flag No. 2, Hebron, M. E. Monroe township 59 present; flag No. 3, East Ringgold U. B. church, Walnut township, 54 present; flag No. 4, Commercial Point M. E. church, Scioto township, 32 present; flag No. 5, Fire Points M. E. church Monroe township 28 present.

The next annual meeting of the County Sunday School association will be held June 9, 1927, at the Methodist Episcopal church in this city.

One of the pleasing features of Thursday's session was the appearance of the pupils from the Second Baptist church, Circleville. The colored children were welcomed with a hearty applause as they entered the church.

The fifty-ninth session will go into history as one of the best in years and showed renewed interest in Sunday school work. The auditorium of the church was crowded and in order to accommodate all, the Sunday school room had to be thrown open and this and the mezzanine floor above was filled.

Ancient Chinese Drug Better Than Adrenalin

Madison, Wis.—New uses have been found for an ancient Chinese drug, ephedrine, which indicate it will be a "powerful aid in the hands of modern physicians" in raising the blood pressure, treatment of asthma and colds, and as an anesthetic, the University of Wisconsin announced.

Research conducted by Dr. Ko-Kuei Chen, pharmacologist at the university, with the drug indicates, he said, that it is superior to adrenalin in the ability to raise the blood pressure over long periods. Experiments are being conducted to determine whether it also is useful in the treatment of hay fever.

Doctor Chen has found a new method for isolating ephedrine, which has been used for medical purposes in China for more than 5,000 years. The drug, which has been submitted to tests here and at the Mayo clinic and the University of Pennsylvania, he said, has been declared an "excellent" treatment for asthma and colds in the head, and a valuable anesthetic.

ANALYSIS SHOWS HOW TO CUT DOWN INSULATION COST

Some Fuel-Saving Materials Add Nothing Extra To Building Price.

Article 2.—Kinds of Insulators Available.

Your first question, after you have decided to insulate your home will be: "What material shall I use; how do the different materials come, and what do they look like?"

In general, insulators are made of three substances—animal, vegetable and mineral. There is one animal-substance insulator—cattle-hair, backed with paper—and one mineral insulator. But there are many vegetable insulators.

Cork is compressed into a board or is granulated and used as filler. Flax-fibre is compressed into a semi-rigid board, or is loosely worked into a blanket backed with paper. Seaweed also is made into a blanket. Wood is worked into a fairly stiff board covered with cement and paper. Wood fibre is compressed into semi-rigid boards, made into a quilt or used loose as a filler. Cane-waste comes as a semi-rigid board.

Mineral insulators are made from gypsum, either as rigid boards ("fireproof lumber"), as dry fillers or as wet fillers. The latter swells when mixed with water, into a light porous fire-stop and insulator.

The foregoing classification will help the home-builder in his choice. A classification according to the form in which the various insulators are sold also will be helpful.

1. Rigid boards. These are made of cork, wood, wood fibre or gypsum. Some do nothing but insulate and thus are extra-cost items. Others can be used as wallboard to provide interior wall-finish. Others give both fire-protection and insulation. Still other boards are used as plaster bases or in place of wood sheathing.

2. Non-rigid boards. Some of these are extra-cost items. Others, despite their lack of structural strength, sometimes are used as plaster bases or as sheathing.

3. Quilts. Since these lack structural strength, the only purpose they serve is insulation.

4. Fillers. These come both dry and wet and are poured between wall studs, over ceiling lath and plaster or between floors. Some fillers are loose. Some have structural strength. Some serve as fire-barriers. Others are combustible in various degrees. Some are hard to install. Others, such as dry fill gypsum, can be installed by the home-owner even in an old home. Some are higher in price. Others are lower.

The foregoing prepares the answer to the home-builders' question: "What types of insulation can I use?"

The answer is: "Any of those mentioned." But the home-builder can save money and add to the value of his house by buying an insulator that does double or treble duty—one that not only insulates but acts as a fire-stop, as in the case of the fillers, or serves as a regular item of construction, such as sheathing, as well as a fire-stop and insulator.

(The next article will tell where a house should be insulated).

LIVIN' ON THE PORCH

Not until you are compelled to live in a "cliff" without a porch, can you appreciate the joy of "livin' on the porch". How much more pleasant it is out there than spending the entire evening in the hot and stuffy house, sitting in the hot and heavy furniture. It is when you are living in an apartment that you miss your porch.

Make your porch your SUMMER LIVING ROOM and enjoy it this summer. Furnish it with one of our KALTEX suits, one of which is pictured below.

You can appreciate at a glance the deep comfort of this distinctive suite with its roll edges and graceful curved backs. The pieces are light, but sturdy strength is woven by hand into everyone of them, and the handsome Miami Blue finish is unaffected by heat, cold, or moisture.

A Swinging Seat for your Porch
Here is a particularly attractive porch swing whose graceful lines make it just the thing for your porch. We have swings in colors to match our suits, in finishes that will not scratch or mar.

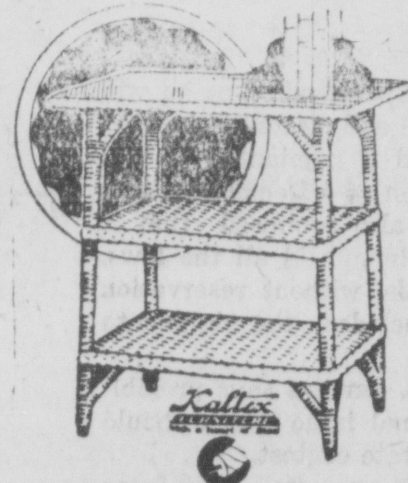

Table for the Porch
This sturdy little table is a very desirable piece for your porch. It has two roomy shelves closely woven in fibre. Just the thing to keep your papers and books handy, or for the ice-tea set.

WHEN GREEKS LOST FIGHT FOR LIBERTY

A date to be remembered in history is April 23, 1826. For a hundred years ago Missolonghi fell to the Turks under Ibrahim Pasha in the Grecian struggle for freedom from Turkish rule. Missolonghi withstood sieges in 1821, 1822 and 1823. Again in 1825-26 it was besieged by overwhelming Turkish forces, and at last succumbed. A body of defenders cut their way through the Turkish forces and escaped; the remainder determined to sell their lives as dearly as possible, and when the Turks forced their way in, the powder magazine was exploded, thus overwhelming besiegers and besieged in one common catastrophe.

It was to Missolonghi that Lord Byron came in his attempt to aid the Greeks in their fight for freedom. He arrived January 5, 1824, and died there April 19, the same year; his heart was interred in the church of Saint Spyridon, and a monument was erected by the Greeks in his honor. In Missolonghi also is the tomb of Marco Bozzaris, a patriotic leader in the defense of the town.

FATHER NOW CAST FOR UNTRIED ROLE

If the plans of a group of English clubwomen, some thousands strong, go through, father will spend his evenings beside the mending basket and the undarned sock. He will wash up the supper dishes, tidy up the parlor and scrub up the front steps.

Friend husband, in short, will do his share of the housework. He will sweep, dust, cook, wash and on Mother's evenings out (which will be more frequent than formerly) he will take care of the children.

Mother calls attention to the fact that she, too, has had a full day while father was at the office, and that any knickknacks of chores which happen to be left over when supper is done are to be shared henceforth on a 50-50 basis.

Detroit women agree that the 50-50 basis would be a fine adjustment, and many think that the boy should be trained for homekeeping as well as the girl. There is a long road to travel before this happens, however, according to Frank Cody, superintendent of Detroit schools.

Primitive Ice Skates

The oldest ice skates in the world have been discovered in a museum in Prague. They date back to the Fifth century, B. C., and are fashioned from the bones of cattle, the bone being flattened off on one side along its length and perforated at each end to admit ankle thongs.

Valid Reason

ALL OBEYED SMALL
BOY'S INJUNCTION

The human propensity to smile under the influence of certain circumstances recently caused confusion when a photographer was making a panoramic view of the Christian Men Builders' class of the Third Christian church. The class, which is unusually large, was posed on the steps of the church and the photographer began to make the picture. His camera, which moved in a semi-circle, had traveled about half the distance across the group of subjects.

At this juncture a little boy, seeing his father in the crowd, waved his hand at the group and cried: "Smile, daddy, smile!"

Half of the class, already photographed, showed in the film as sober-faced and the faces in the other half of the picture were wreathed in smiles. The photographer had to make a second exposure.—Indianapolis News.

PHILOS LODGE
MEMORIAL FOR ABSENT ONES

Rev. Toensmeier the Speaker and Music by Girls' Band
K. of P. Home.

Philos lodge, No. 64, Knights of Pythias, of this city, will hold memorial services for their dead next Sunday afternoon at Forest cemetery at the grave of W. K. Salter, the last member of the order to pass away.

The beautiful custom of placing flowers and a triangle of myrtle on the last resting place of members of the order is observed annually.

The parade will move from the Pythian castle at two o'clock and will be headed by the Girls' band from the Knights of Pythias home at Springfield and will march to Forest cemetery.

Rev. Emil S. Toensmeier, of the First Presbyterian church will deliver the memorial address. The members are requested to bring flowers, early so they can be arranged in baskets.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Since last Memorial day two members have died, George B. Todd, of Columbus, and W. Kinney Salter, of this city.

Were Good Groaners

We have often noticed that the less a person has the matter with him the more he complains about it, and we often wonder if old Job, as he patiently cursed the day he was born and remarked that he was nothing more or less than a brother to dragons and a companion to owls, really had anything worse than a touch of eczema.—Ohio State Journal.

Changing Public Opinion

Public opinion is powerful even when it mistakes. But when it wrongly judges us we should so live that no one will believe what others may say about us. We can, if we will, revise public opinion concerning ourselves.—Grit.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL TO OPEN MONDAY

The Daily Vacation Bible school sponsored by the Ministerial association of Circleville will open in the Franklin street school building Monday, June 14, at 9 o'clock. The sessions will be from 9 till 11:30, five days a week for four weeks. The cooperating churches have provided funds which makes this school possible. The school will be under the supervision of Miss Stewart, of Columbus, who is experienced in both public school and Daily Vacation Bible school work. A teaching staff has been very carefully chosen and will be on salary. It is possible in this four weeks to give as much religious instruction as is given in a whole year in Sunday school. It is not only a Bible school but a school which includes training in worship, community pride, health, and hand work. It teaches Christian principles through doing. Parents who are interested in all round development of their children will consider this school a real opportunity. Wherever these schools have been held the children are enthusiastic about them and each year larger schools are necessary to take care of the increased enrollment.

This school is open to any child in the community between the ages of four and fourteen. A tuition fee of fifty cents for the first child and twenty-five cents for each other child in a family will be charged. Enrollment should be made at once.

The following enrollment blank may be used:

CRIME WAVE?

It could hardly be called that.

Yet, many a time it has been said that it is a crime to let shoes go too long before having them resoled.

Lots of good repairable shoes are lying around inactive that could be repaired and would give long additional service. This is almost criminal waste.

It is practically criminal waste to buy cheap, unrepairable shoes. our

Also Represented People

Congressman Sol Bloom was forcibly impressed with the fact that a public official is the servant of the people at a recent gathering in New York city.

Mr. Bloom was scheduled as principal speaker, but when he arrived a surging crowd blocked the path to the entrance of the building. The representative gently asked the nearest shoulder if he could get through.

"Who're you?" asked the owner of the shoulder.

"I represent the people and am supposed to speak here tonight," explained Mr. Bloom.

"What of it?" growled the would-be member of Mr. Bloom's audience. "I am the people."—New York Evening Post.

DESTRUCTION GATE IS WIDE WAY IS BROAD

Tent Meetings Grow in Interest and Power—Forceful Sermon by Miss Blue.

Miss Irene Blue preached a most forceful sermon at the tent meeting Thursday evening. Her text was:

"Enter ye in at the straight gate, for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction; and many there be which go in thereat; Because straight is the gate and narrow is the way, that leadeth unto life and few there be that find it." Mat. 7:13-14.

In the words of our text we have a splendid picture of the highways of life and of death and we find two ways and only two ways. One goal is death and the other goal is life, and every one of us tonight is one of these ways. There is no middle way. You are on the way to destruction or you are on your way to eternal life right at this moment.

This is a way that is narrow, but it is a way of light. It is His way; it is a way of joy. The broad way may be a way of cheap fun but the narrow way is a way of deep, constant, abiding joy; a walk with Jesus and the goal in view instead of the blackness of hell we find light and we find life, the air is filled with music and the water of life is flowing freely. If you love beauty go to heaven. If you love music go to glory. If you love children go with the blood washed throng. If you love that which is right and good and pure go to a land of spotless purity. Don't say "no" to the one who gave Himself for the young girl's flock. Enter in at the straight gate and find joy and peace to your soul.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Caldwell will entertain a Mah Jongg party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Caldwell, of Los Angeles, California.

Mrs. John G. Boggs and Mrs. Frank A. Lynch will be joint hostesses to a bridge party to be given Monday evening in honor of their sister, Mrs. W. Pearl Hartman, of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Mrs. George H. Fickardt entertained to a Mah Jongg party Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Caldwell, of Los Angeles, California.

A pretty surprise wedding of exceptional interest in this community was solemnized Saturday, June 5, when Miss Mary Marguerite McLain became the bride of Mr. Theodore Scholler. The ceremony was performed in Dayton, Kentucky, at the home of Dr. Jolly, the officiating minister. Included in the wedding party were the bride's mother, Mrs. Blanche McLain, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McLain, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McQuay and daughter, Elaine, Mrs. McQuay and Eugene M. Lain, sister and brother of the bride were attendants at the ceremony. Mrs. Scholler, the younger daughter of Mrs. McLain, is a young bride of the pretty brunette type. For the wedding she wore a smart summer frock of blonde georgette crepe, trimmed with salmon color, with salmon color hat and blonde slippers and stockings, all in harmony with her attractiveness. She is very prominent in the young social circles of the community, and was especially popular in the local high school, from which she graduated in the class of 1926. Being talented as a singer, she has many admirers from a musical standpoint. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Scholler. He also is a graduate of the New Holland high school, in the class of 1922, and attended O. S. U. Columbus, two years, where he specialized in commercial work. He is associated with his father in the bakery. After a short visit in Cincinnati, they returned Sunday evening. For the present they will make their home with Mrs. McLain. Their many friends are extending hearty congratulations in this time.—New Holland Leader.

Sure Grouch Cure

"Take away from a man's life the vivacity injected into it over the manicurist's table," says Cynthia Grey, "and how much more dismal a world it would be." That being true we know a lot of men who ought to have their finger nails filed and polished by these charming young ladies.—Capitol Weekly.

Lace Is Popular for Summer Wear

All Kinds and All Colors of Frilly Material Are on Fashion Card.

Lace is everywhere—all kinds of lace—white and cream, black and colors, coarse and fine, silk and linen and metal, lace of fine mesh net with heavy figures. Those who can have real laces have it. Those who cannot have real laces have some other kind; nobody cares so it's lace.

Frills are developed very much from lace; frills such as we have always known, but there are, surprisingly, other developments with it that we would scarcely have thought of in the last lace era. Two-piece jumper frocks, for instance. And then there are lace frocks made in tiers—plain, not gathered tiers. And then the frock we have had sometimes with the very pretty flare composed of net and lace or chiffon and lace, or just lace. This model is threatened with the general edict of discontinuing the flare. But the threat doesn't scare women very much, at least where the fluffy dresses of filmy materials for the summer are concerned.

The charming circular flounce with the all-over to match it is likely to prove irresistible for this season and all through the summer as much as it has done through the early spring. It almost solves the problem for the home dressmaker, since from it is evolved the necessary lace dress with a minimum amount of work. To be in the best of taste this lace is on the Spanish weave, but must be a rather fine pattern with a mesh not too coarse and rather small pattern.

The mesh is coarse enough to show whether one has just under it a slip of net or chiffon. And while flesh chiffon has been used a great while as a foundation for lace frocks, some persons prefer the flesh or deep cream net. It is just a little more sheer and if the mesh of the lace is wide enough the net doesn't lessen its effect.

Cream and ecru net frocks are often made with boleros and then tied with the bodice or gypsy sash; the bodice tied at the side and the gypsy in front. The bolero, giving a youthful line always, is chosen frequently for the young girl's frock.

One of the season's touches on lace frocks is of metal ribbon. Sometimes it is used as an entire deux with insertions or to join two kinds of lace. One very new cream lace two-piece frock employed an imitation of the old point applique, made from all-over lace or else from flouncing. The jumper made of this had a three-inch insertion down the front, around the bottom and on the sleeves of point de Venise. Everywhere the two laces were joined by inch-wide gold ribbon set under the two lace edges. The sleeves were tied with it and the back of the collar.

Tight-Fitting, Trimmed With Ruffles of Taffeta

This simple frock, worn by a popular "movie" star, is of sage-green chiffon. It is tight-fitting and is trimmed with deep ruffles of taffeta with fringed edges. A double ruffle of taffeta forms the cuffs.

Flesh-Colored Hose Favored for Spring

Flesh-colored stockings—or, as the storekeepers sometimes say, "nude hosiery"—are the correct choice for almost all occasions for spring. This tone is as appropriate for daytime sports wear as for evening. But there should be a difference in the material. For evening, select chiffon silk—or, if you like, lisle of the most gossamery texture. For formal afternoon the same may be worn. Heavier silk or lisle for general afternoon and city wear. For sports wear, thin wool and silk or lisle are the best choice. You may have plain lisle with a small side clock or ribbed lisle for this purpose.

While some women wear flesh-colored stockings with white shoes, there is quite a tendency now to wear white stockings with white shoes. Thin wool and silk stockings are worn with white sports shoes. These sometimes have a check in colored silk to match the color note of the frock.

Some women wear their stockings to match their frocks, and this is charming when the frocks are of the soft pastel shades so much in favor for spring.

FIVE BRIDGES ARE NECESSARY IN BOULEVARD

Pascagoula, Miss., June 10—All of the five bridges necessary to create a tidewater boulevard system, one of the longest and most beautiful in the United States, along the entire length of the Mississippi Gulf coast, have now been authorized.

The total cost of these five bridges is $1,675,000 and they are exclusive of the bridge across Mobile Bay now under construction, and the projected structure near New Orleans, linking the city with the coast.

The last two of the five Mississippi coast bridges were authorized at a bond election just held here, where concrete structures costing a total of $225,000 were carried overwhelmingly. Construction is starting immediately on the $700,000 concrete bridge across the Bay of St. Louis. The $250,000 Iberville causeway across the Bay of Biloxi is more than two-thirds completed, and the Ocean Springs-Biloxi causeway across the same bay has been fully authorized, to cost approximately $500,000.

All five bridges are to be completed and in use this time next year. A paving program to close gaps in the boulevard is also provided.

"Line" on Future Husband

In certain parts of England girls have a test that is supposed to indicate the identity of their future husbands. The test consists of selecting an onion to represent each of the eligible men. They are then placed in a box, well fertilized, and forced to grow. The first to show signs of sprouting is considered to represent the lucky man.

The old idea that the barn should be larger than the house still maintains, but not that the barn should be better than the house. We are now getting the big thinking idea that human beings have some rights as well as domestic animals.

FEDERAL

Grand Jury Failed To Indict Four Athens Men.

Columbus, June 9.—(UP.)—The Federal grand jury here today returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of four Athens, O., men accused of conspiring to violate the national prohibition act. The grand jury's action automatically quashed the charge.

The men were Willard Pierce, John Barnhart, Herbert Bailey and Pearl McDonald who were accused of possessing distilling apparatus. A fifth man, Dell Woods, of Chauncey, has pleaded guilty to the charge and will be sentenced Saturday.

Among those testifying before the grand jury were Harry L. Dalton, Athens constable, Howard Sines, Nelsonville, state prohibition inspector and Isaac Tucker and Harold Seibert, of Athens. They testified the five men were operating the still when they came upon them.

All the defendants except Woods said they discovered the still by accident shortly before their arrest.

EXTRADITION PAPERS ARE APPLIED FOR

Columbus, June 9.—(UP.)—Decatur, Ala., authorities today asked Governor Vic Donahey to sanction the extradition of Robert M. Seligman, 20, under arrest in Cleveland in connection with a murder committed at Decatur last February. Seligman is the son of Morris Seligman, Toledo, manager of a chain of Toledo grocery stores. He was arrested in Cleveland on suspicion and subsequently, according to police, was identified by Thomas Bryant Jr., son of the murdered man, as the alleged slayer.

Motor Accidents

There are about 700,000 automobile accidents in the United States each year, according to reliable statistics. And of this vast number nearly 90 per cent, it is said, are due to human factors, not the machine.

YOU CAN'T HIDE A FARM IN A SAFE DEPOSIT BOX

"How much would you take for your farm?"

"It isn't for sale."

"Don't blame you! If I had it I wouldn't want to sell."

"Did you ever stop to think that you might be forced to sell or mortgage the place, to hand the money over to someone who was injured by one of your cars?"

"You know how crowded the highways are. You run the risk of accident every time one of your cars leaves the yard. I say you, because, no matter who may be driving the car at the time of the accident, you, as owner, will be the man held responsible."

"Right after an accident there is a distinct disadvantage in owning a prosperous farm. It cannot be conveniently hidden in a safe deposit box. It is evident to all who pass. As a consequence, if someone is injured by one of your cars, he's likely to say to himself: 'That fellow is good for any judgment I can get against him. I might as well ask for a large sum.' And suddenly you find yourself sued for $25,000 or $50,000."

Would you care to have a jury of twelve men, picked up here and there around the county, deciding whether or not you should keep your farm?

"Even if the claimant is not given all he asked, you would have been put to the great worry and expense of defending the suit; during which time your regular work is sure to suffer."

"Let me fix you up with Automobile insurance, which will protect your interests if an automobile damage suit is brought against you; pay the court and defense costs, if the case goes to court, and protect your farm, by paying the judgment up to the limits of your policy, if one is rendered against you."

Ostrich Feathers on Evening Gowns

Fluffy Decoration Replaces Fur Trimming; Scarfs and Coats.

Feathers are being shown on many of the latest models, taking the place of fur trimmings, advises a fashion correspondent in the New York Times. A coat done by Des Hayes in taupe crepe satin, with the revived flat back and full front, is trimmed about the neck, at the cuffs and around the bottom with a band of clipped ostrich and marabou combined in two shades of bronze taupe. A smart semi-sports coat from Jaquet has a collar of black and white coque feathers.

A great deal of marabou in different colors and soft shades is used, and an exceptionally stylish coat of black broadcloth has a collar of iridescent coque. In fur scarves, which are still modish, some are dyed, as were the trimming furs of last year, in beautiful shades of green, blue, violet, rose and yellow. Most of these are the full fox skins for use with white and light colored suits for summer.

A motif or cluster of feathers—ostrich, coque or fancy "mode"—is worn as a boutonniere instead of the nosegay of flowers, which has been and is so popular and continues in favor.

As the season advances and lovely new things in evening dress are brought out, wraps for the summer dinner-and-dance type of gown are given much thought. There is the greatest difference between the formal wrap, worn over elaborate costumes during the winter season, and the lighter, cloud-like affair that one may throw about one's shoulders as protection and for a sense of completeness in dress in summer.

Scarfs for evening and for daytime wraps are now very fashionable, and are to be had in every sort and size. Considerable skill and taste are required to handle and to wear gracefully one of the wide and long scarfs of sheer, clinging chiffon, gauze, metal fabric or the heavy eluding Chinese silk of the Manila mantillas we call Spanish shawls. Cheruit is reveling in these scarf wraps, adding them to elaborate evening gowns. One of unusual beauty is a shawl scarf of gold brocade combined with gold lace to be worn in the wrap-around manner of a shawl. In another, Cheruit fashions the scarf into a cape with godets inserted at spaces, with ends that are designed to tie at one side to hold the cape on the opposite shoulder.

Colorful Frocks Are to

Be Mode During Summer

The mixing of colors for one frock, ensemble or suit is now generally accepted. You take, for instance, coat and skirt of one plain material, but the vest and jumper blouse in a printed fabric, and line the coat with the same fabric.

Many stand-up collars are made in these days, but they never are very tight around the neck, so that the movability of the neck is preserved.

The fabrics have often colorful borders in geometrical patterns which are used for a trimming. For the afternoon and the evening there are silk muslin frocks in many colors, with dots or flower designs or with cubist figures.

Colorful frocks are certain to be the mode during the summer, although gray, wood colors, bottle green and white, or even navy blue, are worn a good deal.

Damask Lining

An extremely smart ensemble of black kasha has a frock of lime green Chinese damask and a coat of kasha lined with the damask. The effect is strikingly attractive.

Call Moose, Deer Pests, So Many in North Woods

St. Paul, Minn.—Moose and deer so thick and so tame that they are a nuisance to his reconnaissance crew, were seen by A. E. Pimply, state chief of fire suppression, while on a six weeks' stay in the Canadian border country of Minnesota.

"We saw scores of moose and signs of many more," said Mr. Pimply. "If anyone thinks the king of the forest is fading in Minnesota, he should visit this part of the big woods. The deer were running in groups as high as ten. Both moose and deer were very tame."

The expedition was conducted by the forestry service to obtain data on state-owned timber.

Notes were made on locations for lake shore homesites and tourist camps and the conditions were studied from a fire hazard angle. The crew worked in the territory about twenty-five miles north of Grand Marais.

Original Lifeboat

The lifeboat was invented in 1784 by Lionel Lukin of Dunmow, England, a landlubber who had always lived away from the sea. These boats are now made of corrugated iron. The first one contained side air chambers, then cork was substituted, and the keel was curved.

BOY SCOUT TROOPS DOING GOOD WORK

Half a million boys, working as an organized unit for reforestation and conservation, are a force which can, in a generation, do much to overcome public indifference and accomplish actual results, writes Daniel Carter Beard, in the semi-centennial edition of the Forestry Almanac, just published by the American Tree association of Washington. It is probable that every one of the nearly 25,000 boy scout troops has at least planted one tree. The boys, the New York conservation commission states, have planted 126,000 trees.

The boy scout is a safe camper. Beard pointed out. One of the first things he learns is to build a fire and put it out, so that no treacherous red ember will be left to start a conflagration. One scout-trained camper is the means of educating many careless persons with whom he comes in contact in the woods, and this educational campaign is effective in combating public indifference. That scouts are well trained is proved by the fact that in many reservations which are closed entirely to the ordinary camper the boy scout is welcome.

TINY GERM SPREADS DISEASE AMONG FISH

Diminutive Parasite Attacks the Gills.

Washington.—There are fish epidemics as well as human epidemics. Really serious ones due to a tiny parasite rearing in the name Ichthyophthirius multifiliis have occurred from time to time in France, Germany, Holland and in various parts of the United States. This parasite attacks freshwater fish, both in their natural environment and in aquaria with a resulting loss running into hundreds of dollars.

In a recent paper H. F. Prytherch of the United States bureau of fisheries describes various methods of controlling this disease in hatcheries, fish farms and all places where fish are kept in artificial confinement. To make clear how the problem can be attacked, he says, it is first necessary to understand something of the life history of the parasite.

"Polka Dots" Are Symptoms.

The young Ichthyophthirius, according to Mr. Prytherch, goes through a free swimming stage during which it wanders around through the water in search of a host. On coming in contact with a fish it burrows into some unsealed part, especially preferring the gills or fins. Once embedded in the fish's skin it grows rapidly from the nourishment it absorbs from the tissues and soon shows on the outside as a small white spot. Badly infected fish are covered with these "polka dots" all over their bodies.

In a few days this white body leaves the fish and sinks to the bottom, where it shortly undergoes a transformation into a hard-shelled reproductive cyst. When reproduction is complete the cyst wall bursts and releases hundreds of young parasites of the free-swimming stage.

Mr. Prytherch states: "There are two general methods for treating the disease—first, by killing the parasites while they are attached to the fish, and second, by destroying them after they leave the fish and are free-swimming in the water. The first general method can be used to hold the disease in check, but will not completely wipe it out."

Alum Sulphate Helps.

The logical time to begin treatment, he continues, is when the first symptoms of the disease appear and the whole fight in controlling the disease should be directed against reinfection.

Direct application of alum sulphate has been found most efficacious in ridding the fish of the parasites. The healing action of the alum leaves the "patient" in a less weakened condition than any of the various other chemicals tried so far for this purpose.

The second method which attacks the adult parasite after it has left the fish is more successful and should be utilized, says Mr. Prytherch, whenever possible. It consists simply in placing the fish in swiftly running water where the parasites will be carried away before reproduction can take place. The overflow should be carried off both at the top and the bottom to take care of any that do not fall directly to the bottom. Infected fish, in warm weather, it is stated, may be cured in this way in a week or ten days and further epidemics prevented by quarantining new stock in running water. In some instances swiftly-flowing streams may be fenced off and used for this purpose by leaving the fish in the enclosure until cured.

Tadpoles and goldfish kept in tanks with fishes subject to this disease have been found extremely helpful in keeping it down, since they prey on the parasites for food.

AX ATTACK VIC-TIM TO RECOVER, WIFE FREED

No Similarity In Fingerprints On Ax Handle and Those of Mrs. Donley.

Columbus, June 10.—With the definite announcement from surgeons at St. Francis hospital that Benjamin Donley, aged 21, 2011 Parsons avenue, who was attacked by an ax-wielder while sleeping in his home, early Monday, would recover, Chief of Detectives W. G. Shellenbarger released Mrs. Nellie May Donley, 19 years old, wife of the victim, who has been held for investigation since the attempted murder.

When questioned again, Wednesday, Mrs. Donley continued to maintain her innocence and related the same story as before—that a negro prowler, clad only in underwear, struck her husband in the face with the ax and then dragged her from the bedroom.

Fingerprints found on the handle of the ax and impressions of Mrs. Donley's fingers were compared Wednesday, by Homer Richter, Bertillon officer, and John E. Davis, superintendent of the criminal bureau of identification. There was no similarity in the impressions.

OFFICER DENIED POLICE BURIAL

Detroit, June 9.—(UP.)—Patrolman Walter L. Darsee, slain as a hijacker here Friday, was denied police burial because a self-confessed "blind pig" operator had brought charges of extortion against him, police officials announced today.

Slaying of the patrolman occurred near an illicit saloon, the proprietor of which, Stanley K. Malecki, accused Darsee of demanding $50 each for himself and two others whom he introduced as "Sergeants."

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES

Columbus, O., June 11, (UP) —A five day program, comprising the forty-ninth annual commencement at Ohio State university, began today with the dedication of the Growing Dramatic society's new amphitheater in the campus hollow.

The annual meeting of the board of directors and board of visitors of the Ohio State University association are scheduled for this afternoon. The reunion class with the largest percentage of members, based on the registration, will be awarded the "Pomerene Cup" for attendance.

The Ohio State university club at Columbus will be host tomorrow at the first alumnae breakfast at the Ohio Union. Also on the program Saturday morning is the annual baseball game between the alumni and the faculty. Coach H. C. Olsen, varsity basketball coach, is rounding up the faculty nine.

Special interest attaches to the reunion of the class of '95, of which President George W. Rightmire, was a member.

The Lost and Found

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

WHEN Sammy left his home town in America to go far across the sea to the exhibition at Wembley, he certainly had not expected to be in the famous Scotland Yard. However, Sammy was merely in the lost and found office of that institution in quest of his raincoat. He had left it on the bus after a day at Wembley.

He had not supposed so many careless people existed in the whole world and took up his place patiently on the fringe of the crowd waiting there at the various windows to claim lost property.

At least the procedure of claiming lost raincoats would have seemed tedious to Sammy had he not caught sight of her. She was standing just behind and seemingly a too fragile part of that pushing crowd. Sammy edged aside and managed to place himself as a kind of buffer. She had looked up at him and smiled her thanks, but it had been a lengthy and satisfactory thanks that went most completely to Sammy's head.

And during that time, while others were drawing nearer the officers in charge of the windows, Sammy had plenty of time to note all the lovely things in connection with her. In the first place, he felt reasonably sure that she was an American. There was that frank interest in everything lighting her eyes. In her hand she carried the letter that Scotland Yard had sent her telling her that her opal bracelet had been found.

Finally Sammy saw her draw forth some banknotes to pay the charge of three shillings on the pound on the value of her bracelet and watched her sign the papers that the officer piled before her. Sammy glowered at that officer simply because he was fortunate enough to be holding conversation with her. However, Sammy was keen enough to take in at one glance the name and address she was writing.

After that she turned, looked into Sammy's eyes again with a swift, sweet farewell and edged her way out of the crowd. Sammy was also quick enough to see that she had forgotten her umbrella and brilliant enough to take it swiftly from the counter as if it were his own. It was still warm from the grasp of her hand.

It was his turn now at the window, and he told the tale of his loss—a brown raincoat left on a bus and all the time he was wondering if he could possibly catch up with her or whether the vast London streets would have swallowed her up. Anyway, he had her address. Sammy could afford to wait. He most certainly would return the umbrella in person rather than permit her to stand in that crowd again in Scotland Yard office and get it back through its proper channel. In this particular case Sammy felt himself and not Scotland Yard to be the proper channel.

"It will save her expense and time and energy," he told himself, and smiled at a kind fate.

But when he went out to the address, 15 Norland square, next day to return that umbrella the fates had played him false.

"Miss Weller left yesterday," he was informed; "she went to Scotland to sail this morning for America. Yes, she left an address, as she said she had lost an umbrella." Sammy failed to hear anything for a moment, so black had the day grown, but he rallied and knew that some day somewhere he would manage to see that she got her umbrella. He took down the address, which proved to be just outside of New York city.

In Sammy's pocket on his way home was a most lovely opal ring—Sammy had great hopes. And out in her garden, when late September was hurling all sorts of wonderful tawny colors about the landscape, Grace Weller sighed into the huge bunch of chrysanthemums she had cut.

"Plans can go very much askew," she informed the flowers, but of course they didn't know anything about a fine-looking young man who had stood beside Grace in the office of Scotland Yard and looked protectively into her eyes.

"A gentleman to see you, miss," came swiftly from old Nanny's part of the house; "shall I just show him out there—he says it's about an umbrella."

Grace blushed and hid her face quickly from Nanny.

When their hands finally did meet it seemed as if they never could draw apart. Both Grace and Sammy were speechless with nerves and neither found voice now that the big event had actually happened.

"I brought your umbrella," said Sammy.

"Oh," said Grace, "I thank you." She dropped the dark lashes and added softly, "I left it—on purpose."

"Darling!" blurted Sammy, then flushed. He laughed then and told her all the things he had been thinking during the past weeks and showed her a lovely opal ring with many diamonds surrounding the stone. "And that's for you—when you say the right word," he said.

Grace's eyes had already said the magic word.

Warship Needed Mascot

The bad luck that attended the United States battleship Texas was attributed by old men-o'-war-men to the fact that she had no mascot. Geese as mascots have a bad reputation with sailors. And most seamen believe that if a cat falls overboard and is drowned the vessel is doomed.
